Matthew C. Waxman

Matthew Waxman is adjunct senior fellow for law and U.S. foreign policy at the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR). He is also associate professor of law at Columbia Law School and a former international affairs fellow at CFR.

He previously served as principal deputy director of the State Department's policy planning staff, deputy assistant secretary of defense for detainee affairs, director for contingency planning and international justice at the National Security Council, and special assistant to National Security Advisor Condoleezza Rice.

Mr. Waxman is a graduate of Yale College and Yale Law School and studied international relations as a Fulbright scholar in the United Kingdom. After law school, he served as law clerk to Supreme Court Justice David H. Souter and U.S. Court of Appeals judge Joel M. Flaum. He is a member of the Hoover Institution Task Force on national security and law, and his publications include The Dynamics of Coercion: American Foreign Policy and the Limits of Military Might (Cambridge University Press, 2002) (with D. Byman) and the Council Special Report Intervention to Stop Genocide and Mass Atrocities: International Norms and U.S. Policy (2009).
