New Contingency Planning Memos

Renewed Confrontation in Georgia
With U.S.-Russia relations at their lowest point in decades, renewed confrontation between Russia and Georgia would make matters worse. David J. Kramer analyzes the likelihood of conflict between the two countries and offers timely recommendations to prevent future flare-ups.

Read this report at cfr.org/CPM_Georgia

Armed Confrontation Between China and India
Although Beijing and New Delhi both aim to prevent conflict, the potential for their relationship to deteriorate is ever present. Daniel S. Markey argues that the United States has a major interest in preventing armed confrontation.

Read this report at cfr.org/CPM_China_India

Growing Stress on Jordan
In 2013, the Contingency Planning Memorandum “Political Instability in Jordan” warned that local grievances threatened Jordan’s stability. Robert Satloff and David Schenker have updated their previous memo, cautioning that although the risk of domestic unrest has diminished, the potential for spillover from the Syrian conflict has grown.

Read this report at cfr.org/Jordan_CPMU

New Cyber Brief

Protecting Data Privacy With User-Friendly Software
Protecting the privacy of user data from unauthorized access is essential. But strong privacy protection software is often difficult to use. Sara “Scout” Sinclair Brody explains how open-source software can strengthen online privacy.

Read this report at www.cfr.org/Privacy_Software_Cyber_Brief
New CFR Books

The Hacked World Order
How Nations Fight, Trade, Maneuver, and Manipulate in the Digital Age
By Adam Segal
The Hacked World Order shows how governments use the web to wage war and spy on, coerce, and damage each other. Adam Segal describes how cyberattacks can be launched by any country, individual, or private group with minimal resources in mere seconds, and how they can threaten the integrity of complex systems such as power grids, financial institutions, and security networks.

Order this book at www.cfr.org/hackedworldorder

War By Other Means
Geoeconomics and Statecraft
By Robert D. Blackwill and Jennifer M. Harris
In a cogent analysis of why the United States is losing ground as a world power, Robert D. Blackwill and Jennifer M. Harris explore the statecraft of geoeconomics: the use of economic instruments to achieve geopolitical goals. Wide-ranging factors leave the United States ill prepared for this new era of geoeconomic contest, while rising powers are adapting rapidly.

Order this book at www.cfr.org/warbyothermeans
Harvard Univ. Press • 384 pp. • ISBN 978-0-674-73721-1 • $29.95

The Pragmatic Superpower
Winning the Cold War in the Middle East
By Ray Takeyh and Steven Simon
Ray Takeyh and Steven Simon reframe the legacy of U.S. involvement in the Arab world from 1945 to 1991 and shed new light on the makings of the contemporary Middle East. Cutting against conventional wisdom, the authors argue that, when an inexperienced Washington entered the turbulent world of Middle Eastern politics, it succeeded through hardheaded pragmatism—and secured its place as a global superpower.

Order this book at www.cfr.org/pragmaticsuperpower
W. W. Norton • 416 pp. • ISBN 978-0-393-08151-0 • $28.95
New CFR Books

State Capitalism
How the Return of Statism is Transforming the World
By Joshua Kurlantzick
The increase in state capitalism across the globe, Joshua Kurlantzick argues, has contributed to an overall decline in democracy. When states control firms, the government increases its advantage over the rest of society. State Capitalism offers the sharpest analysis yet of what state capitalism’s emergence means for democratic politics around the world.

Order this book at www.cfr.org/statecapitalism
Oxford Univ. Press • 296 pp. • 978-0-199-38570-6 • $29.95

Morning in South Africa
By John Campbell
South Africa’s crushing historical burden of racism and white supremacy continues to resonate today. Under President Jacob Zuma, South Africa is treading water and thorny challenges persist. Nevertheless, John Campbell argues that the country’s future is bright and that its democratic institutions will endure.

Order this book at www.cfr.org/morninginsouthafrica
Rowman & Littlefield • 244 pp. • ISBN 978-1-4422-6589-9 • $29.95

How America Stacks Up
Economic Competetiveness and U.S. Policy
By Edward Alden and Rebecca Strauss
The line between domestic and foreign economic policies is now almost invisible. Through insightful analysis and engaging graphics, Edward Alden and Rebecca Strauss outline the challenges facing the U.S. economy and prescribes options to help the United States keep pace with global competition.

Order this book at www.cfr.org/howamericastacksup
240 pp. • ISBN 978-0-87609-661-1 • $2.99 ebook • $39.95 paper
New Council Special Reports

Securing a Democratic Future for Myanmar

By Priscilla A. Clapp

Myanmar is undergoing a historic transition, ushering in a new civilian government after decades of military rule. Priscilla A. Clapp outlines the road ahead and recommends steps the United States and others should take to help the country tackle its most pressing challenges.

Read this report at www.cfr.org/Myanmar_CSR

CSR 75 • 56 pp. • ISBN 978-0-87609-669-7 • $10.00

Xi Jinping on the Global Stage

Chinese Foreign Policy Under a Powerful but Exposed Leader

By Robert D. Blackwill and Kurt M. Campbell

In light of China’s deepening economic slowdown, “China’s foreign policy may well be driven increasingly by the risk of domestic political instability,” write Robert D. Blackwill and Kurt M. Campbell. The authors explore China’s path under Xi’s leadership and call for a new U.S. grand strategy in Asia.

Read this report at www.cfr.org/Xi_Jinping_CSR

CSR 74 • 66 pp. • ISBN 978-0-87609-666-6 • $10.00

New From the Center for Preventive Action

Preventive Priorities Survey: 2016

The Center for Preventive Action’s annual Preventive Priorities Survey (PPS) evaluates ongoing and potential conflicts based on their likelihood of occurring in the coming year and their impact on U.S. interests. Government officials, academics, and foreign policy experts weigh in on potential conflicts that could erupt or escalate in 2016 and help to prioritize competing demands.

Read this report at www.cfr.org/pps_2016
CFR Publications
tel  212.434.9613
publications@cfr.org

The Council on Foreign Relations takes no institutional positions on policy issues and has no affiliation with the U.S. government. All views expressed in its publications and on its website are the sole responsibility of the author or authors.

CFR publications cover a wide array of topics. The full text of most reports, and excerpts from select CFR Books, can be read online or downloaded for free from CFR.org. Many CFR reports are also available for purchase as ebooks for Amazon Kindle, Barnes & Noble Nook, Apple iPad, and Kobo devices.

Individual copies of CFR reports are available for purchase through Amazon.com.

Bookstores: To order bulk copies of CFR reports, please contact Ingram at 800.234.6737, ipage.ingrambook.com, or orders@ingrambook.com.

Browse a complete list of reports and books by scanning this code with your mobile device.