

Tara Hariharan

Tara Hariharan is managing director of global macro research and head of macro research at NWI Management LP, a New York-based emerging markets-focused hedge fund. Hariharan leads top-down analysis of economic activity, policy, and macro-political issues for countries globally, and created NWI's proprietary "macro dashboard" to identify strategic investment opportunities in fixed income, foreign exchange, equities, and commodities. She regularly presents her assessments of China's economy and U.S-China relations to senior policymakers in the United States, emerging markets, and the International Monetary Fund (IMF). Hariharan regularly features on CNBC and Bloomberg Television and is quoted by Reuters as an expert on China, emerging markets, and global macro. She is currently a 2023 Millennium Leadership Fellow at the Atlantic Council.

A 2014 German Marshall Fund Marshall Memorial fellow, Hariharan was elected in 2022 to the board of directors of the American Council on Germany (ACG) after being a 2016 ACG Young Leader. Hariharan is an active member of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce chief economists' committee and engages with the Chamber on U.S-China relations and issues around emerging market debt relief. Elected to the Inter-American Dialogue in 2021, she regularly contributes to publications on Latin American economics, trade flows, and China's influence on the region. She is a member of the Economic Club of New York (ECNY) and was a 2022 ECNY Fellow.

Hariharan earned a bachelor's degree in anthropology from Princeton University in 2007 and a graduate certificate in international relations from Harvard Extension School in 2023.
