

Jainey K. Bavishi

Jainey K. Bavishi is an independent consultant working to advance equity into the nation's efforts to prepare for climate change. She previously served as the director of the New York City Mayor's Office of Climate Resiliency, which tackled the challenge of climate change through science-based analysis, policy and program development, and capacity building, under Mayor Bill de Blasio. Prior to that, she served as the associate director for climate preparedness at the White House Council on Environmental Quality under President Barack Obama. She also served as the director of external affairs and Senior Policy Advisor to the administrator at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) during the Obama Administration. Bavishi has held several nonprofit leadership roles in Honolulu, Hawaii and New Orleans, Louisiana. She has a master's degree in city planning from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a bachelor's degree in public policy and cultural anthropology from Duke University.