

Sam McBride is the Northern Ireland Editor of the Belfast Telegraph and the Dublin-based Sunday Independent newspapers. Prior to that he was Political Editor of the Belfast News Letter, the world's oldest continuously-published English language newspaper and Northern Ireland's unionist newspaper.

Sam also writes for The Economist and earlier this year made a film for the BBC on the Northern Bank robbery. He is author of The Sunday Times bestseller Burned: The Inside Story of the 'Cash-for-Ash' Scandal and Northern Ireland's Secretive New Elite and is a regular broadcaster, providing analysis for local, national and international audiences on developments in Northern Ireland. He lives in Belfast with his wife and two young children.