

Nazanin Ash

Nazanin Ash is vice president for public policy and advocacy at the International Rescue Committee and a visiting policy fellow at the Center for Global Development. Previously, she has served as deputy assistant secretary in the Bureau of Near Eastern Affairs at the Department of State, and as principal advisor and chief of staff to the first director of U.S. foreign assistance and administrator at USAID.